New Student Orientation Handbook
Welcome to Vanderbilt!

I am glad to welcome you to Vanderbilt’s diverse community of scholars, visionaries, and educators. I hope that your experience will prove challenging and rewarding as you find your place among your classmates and future colleagues to collaboratively enrich the intellectual vitality on campus. We also look forward to your exceptionally promising contributions to your respective fields.

This handbook contains supplemental information to help orient you to Vanderbilt, its opportunities, and its programs. More detailed information will be provided by your department regarding specific resources and requirements for your degree program. Vanderbilt’s campus provides a wide array of resources and opportunities, and I invite you to seek those that meet your own unique needs.

Warm regards,

Mark T. Wallace, PhD
Dean of Vanderbilt Graduate School
Louise B. McGavock Endowed Chair
Professor of Hearing & Speech Sciences, Psychology, and Psychiatry

The Center for Student Wellbeing at Vanderbilt University serves to create a culture that supports the personal development and academic success of students using an integrative, holistic framework. Through inclusive and collaborative programming, support services, and campus initiatives, the Center cultivates engagement in lifelong wellbeing practices that enhance students’ ability to thrive within the Vanderbilt community and beyond.

The Center for Student Wellbeing is a new space dedicated to helping students cultivate lifelong wellbeing practices. The staff, which includes Student Wellbeing Coordinators and an Academic Skills Coach, is available for individual coaching appointments to help students develop and maintain skills that will contribute to personal and academic success. Students are invited to utilize the meditation room for yoga, meditation, and mindfulness classes, or for self-guided practice. Workshops are available on a variety of topics as well, including resiliency, time management, and healthy living. Vanderbilt Recovery support is a program of the CSW, providing support services to students recovering from substance use issues.

The mission of the Center for Teaching is to promote university teaching that leads to meaningful student learning. By helping members of the Vanderbilt community become more effective teachers, the Center for Teaching supports the educational mission of the university and enhances the learning experiences of its students.

The Center for Teaching (CFT) offerings are available to all graduate students, including those teaching at Vanderbilt as teaching assistants (TAs) and instructors of record, as well as those who anticipate that teaching will be a part of their future careers. Programs for graduate students include the Teaching Assistant Orientation, the Certificate in College Teaching, the Blended and Online Learning Design (BOLD) Fellows program, and the Certificate in Humanities Teaching and Learning. The CFT also offers professional development workshops on a variety of topics and a range of confidential consultation services for instructors interested in reflecting on their teaching experiences.

The Graduate Honor Council is a student-run organization tasked with educating students about the honor system, investigating violations, determining guilt and penalties.

All Vanderbilt students and classes operate under the Honor Code. The Honor Council “seeks to protect the honor of all graduate students by vindicating those falsely suspected of dishonesty and penalizing those guilty of dishonest acts” by: (1) enforcing the Honor Code and informing students about the Honor System, (2) conducting investigations into any reported violations of the Honor Code, and (3) holding confidential hearings to determine innocence or penalties. Common examples of Honor Code violations include: inappropriate levels of collaboration on assignments, unauthorized usage of materials/sources, misunderstanding of course expectations, un-cited work (plagiarism), and turning in work prepared in a prior course/venture for a current one without express authorization.

Interested in getting involved with the Honor Council?

We are student-run and student-driven. Student volunteers help on a per case basis and may assist in gathering evidence and statements (~10 hours per case) or participate on panels to determine guilt and penalties (~2 hours per case).

2016-2017 Officers:

President
Leif Neitzel

Vice President
Mark Giganti

The Margaret Cuninggim Women’s Center is an affirming space for women and for all members of the Vanderbilt community that actively resists sexism and all forms of oppression by providing resources and educational programming.

The Women's Center works toward gender equity through it varied programming. We offer Start Smart Salary Negotiation workshops which teach people how to negotiate a salary and benefits package. The Women in the Academy series offers Ph.D. students a chance to reflect on the ways that gender affects their experience in their professional academic lives. Our Work–Life Workshops cover a blend of self-care and professional development topics such as navigating organizational politics, stress management, and mindfulness. Each spring as part of the celebration of Women's History Month, we host a national speaker for the Cuninggim Lecture on Women in Culture and Society.

The mission of The Vanderbilt Recreation and Wellness Center (VRWC) is to encourage lifelong learning, develop healthy lifestyles, foster leadership, instill an appreciation for diverse communities and enhance interpersonal relationships. This is accomplished by providing quality facilities, and by using intentional, educational, and enjoyable programming that focuses on Vanderbilt Students, Faculty/Staff and the greater community.

The Outdoor Recreation Program provides Vanderbilt Students, Graduate and Professional Students, Faculty, Staff, Medical Staff, VRWC Members and Alumni the opportunity to explore the outdoor world. This is accomplished though Adventure Trips, Outdoor Equipment Rentals, a Climbing/Bouldering Wall, Kayak Roll Workshops, and a Resource Center. The Climbing Wall and Kayak Workshops are located in the VRWC and the rest originates from the Outdoor Recreation Center, located at 2600 Children's Way. Our mission is to foster interdisciplinary awareness and understanding of global health within the Vanderbilt community by serving as a medium of communication between the Vanderbilt student body and Vanderbilt Institute for Global Health; promoting service, research, and educational opportunities; and actively facilitating collaboration and action.

The purpose of the Vanderbilt Institute for Global Health (VIGH) Student Advisory Council is to bring together diverse students interested in global health with the goal of fostering cross-disciplinary student networking and collaboration. The Student Advisory Council maintains an extensive collection of student resources, including an opportunities database, global health courses, career guidance, and funding opportunities in addition to facilitating collaboration among the many global health organizations across campus. We also host an annual global health case competition bringing together more than 100 students from all Vanderbilt schools to solve a global health problem. The winner of this competition goes on to represent Vanderbilt at a national competition in Atlanta.
